Double-Ring Wedding

TOMLINSON — BROWN

Scented pink and white summer flowers were massed in bouquets at the altar of the Irma United Church on Wednesday, July 30th at 4:30 p.m., when Miss Shirley Mae Brown became the bride of Mr. Norris Leigh Tomlinson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Brown and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Tomlinson, all of Irma.

Rev. Wm. Aitken-Harvey of Edmonton performed the double-ring ceremony at which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

For her wedding, the bride chose a slipper-length gown of pure silk organza. The full skirt was arranged over hoops, accented by a delicate bow trailing a long row of hand-sewn buttons. The fitted bodice, styled with lily-point sleeves, was framed by a Sabrina neckline of lace and pearl embroidery.

A crown of seed pearls and sequins held her chapel veil in place and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and white shasta daisies. The bride's pearl necklace and earrings were a gift from the groom.

Miss Pat Weir, the maid of honor, chose a waist-length gown of periwinkle blue organza. The bouffant gown was designed with a round neckline and a bow at the back with streamers extending to the hemline. A bride-dieu of pink shasta daisies was in her hair and she carried a cascade bouquet of matching pink shasta daisies.

Mr. Doug Kirk attended the groom as best man. Ushering the guests to pews, marked with white satin bows were Mr. Hugh Tomlinson and Mr. Garth Tomlinson, brothers of the groom.

Miss Elvina Soneff played the wedding music and the soloist was Mrs. R. Simmonson who sang "A Wedding Prayer" and "Because."

Following the church ceremony a reception was held in the church hall. The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake in a bed of white tulle and pink daisies. The cake was beautifully decorated by Mrs. Harry Riley and was crowned with a miniature replica of the church in which the couple were united. Master of ceremonies was Mr. Ross McFarland and Mr. Herb Black proposed a toast to the bride.

Mr. Donald Gunn, groom's best man, recalled many pleasant memories of the school days of both the bride and groom. Several telegrams from Winnipeg and Vancouver were read by Mr. Kirk.

Mrs. N. Kubish, a cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brown wore a beige crystal-lette packet dress. A white picture hat, matching accessories and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Tomlinson, mother of the groom, chose a pink linen dress with white accessories. A corsage of yellow sweetheart roses was pinned at her shoulder.

For a honeymoon trip to the Western States, the bride changed to a light blue silk and rayon suit with matching hat and white accessories. A corsage of pink sweetheart roses completed her ensemble.

Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson will make their home in Edmonton. Out of town guests attending the wedding included: Mrs. N. Kubish, Beauegou; Manitoba; Mrs. Agnes McKerscher, Nottawa, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Tomlinson, Beach Corner; Mrs. C. Davick, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hillerud, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hillerud, Mr. and Mrs. N. Solberg, and Mrs. Ella Skiles, all of Ryley.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. H. Miller, Mrs. S. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Bohme, Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mr. and Mrs. H. Crouse, Mr. and Mrs. A. McLachlan, and Mrs. T. Klapecki, Miss Pat Weir, Miss Elvina Soneff, Mrs. K. Soneff, Mr. Doug Kirk, Mr. John Vandenberg, Mr. Leo Kraft, Mr. Lloyd McLaren, Mrs. Marilyn Hill, all of Edmonton;

BRIDAL SHOWER HELD RECENTLY

Old classmates and many friends of Mrs. Louis Fornal, the former Connie Owen, gathered in the basement of the Irma United Church on Monday evening to attend a bountiful bridal shower in her honor.

The room was decorated with pink and white wedding bells and streamers and bouquets of gladioli and dahlias.

Connie was escorted to the seat of honor by Miss Alice Fischer who was Mistress of Ceremonies.

Arlene Clumstad played a lively piano solo and two jolly contests were conducted by Nellie Cairns and Lorraine Pond and Alice and Carol Fischer.

The old classmates and friends sang an original song by Mrs. Hurst and then two nieces of the bride, Mrs. Johnson and Joan Owen, dressed as bride and groom, pulled in a model N.W.U. truck, gaily decorated and filled with lovely gifts.

In opening these, Connie was assisted by her mother and sisters, Mrs. Reber, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Waddell and also by a niece from Lougheed.

A lovely assortment of gifts were displayed and after the guest of honor had expressed her warmest thanks, a delightful lunch was served by the hostesses.

Glen-Coa Gleanings

Mr. and Mrs. O. Rasok and girls visited friends near Donalds last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Gulbraa and family attended the wedding of a niece, Miss Nora Likness, at Edmonton last Saturday.

Miss Edythe Gulbraa is now employed at the bank in Edger-ton.

Miss Lily MacKay has spent her holidays at her home here in Irma.

Miss Norma Likness arrived home from California last week. She and three friends had a wonderful motor trip together travelling in two cars. They visited at the west coast for several days and then came home the Canadian route and by Banff and Jasper.

Several mistakes were made in last week's column. Mr. John Gulbraa and his son Sigurd and family, were from Olympia, Wash., not Longbeach, California.

It was Mrs. N. Nilson who went to the coast with Mrs. Reitan, not Mrs. N. Fluevog. Your Correspondent will be watchful for slips in the future.

The Edmonton Circuit Luther League is holding a rally at Camrose Lutheran College this weekend continuing through Monday. Therefore there will not be a Luther League program at Sharon on Sunday evening.

As obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts in your ignorance; But as He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation; Because it is written, Be ye holy, for I am holy.

And if ye call on the Father, who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear: Forasmuch as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers; But with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot: — Peter 1:14-19.

New treatment for alcoholics

I doubt if a week goes by without some "drunk" dying in a Canadian jail. I never read of such a case without feeling real pity. As any mother used to say, long ago: "Poor soul! He belonged to somebody." In other words, while his death might or might not be regarded as a loss by society, it was a heartbreaking finish to some little child who called him "Daddy".

I find my blood rising a little more, too, with every such incident. There is, of course, the usual investigation; the police are exonerated of all blame; and life goes on until the next man hooked on intoxication doubles up in his cell, is rushed to the hospital and dies. When are we going to learn that we cannot throw an alcoholic into jail?

Any doctor will tell you that an alcoholic is a sick man in the true sense of the word. As sick as a person with cancer or leprosy or pneumonia. His whole system cries out for alcohol—if he cannot get that alcohol, death may be an indirect result.

Alcoholic not ordinary drunkard

I have more true pity and sympathy for the alcoholic than for the ordinary drunkard—and there is a vast difference. A man may get drunk for any number of reasons, none of them very sensible. The next morning he has a thick head, coated tongue and queasy stomach. The sight of liquor is abhorrent to him. Many men have been drunkards all their lives without ever becoming victims of alcoholism.

The alcoholic is a different being. Once he tastes liquor it obsesses him. He will stagger home late at night and the next morning is on fire until he gets more liquor. As the disease progresses he is utterly helpless against it. He will sell all he has to get money for liquor. He insults his friends, ostracizes his family, and even steals to get money to buy alcohol. In the end, he is more animal-like than human.

Will power is useless. The strongest-willed man I ever knew was an alcoholic. He took a farm 10 miles from town and swore he would beat alcoholism by never going into town. For two years he fought the hellish fight alone. Then one day he walked off his combine, cut across the fields to town. It was three months before he sobered up again—a man almost on the verge of insanity.

There is a difference between him and the man who gets drunk "for fun".

Alcoholism is no respecter of class or creed or sex. A weakness towards the disease may be inherited. By the same token it may break out of a family that has never tasted alcohol in any form. There is of course, no danger of becoming an alcoholic if you don't drink; but that is beside the point. What matters to the alcoholic—and should matter to us—is what is to become of those who have fallen victim.

Tears and tantrums useless

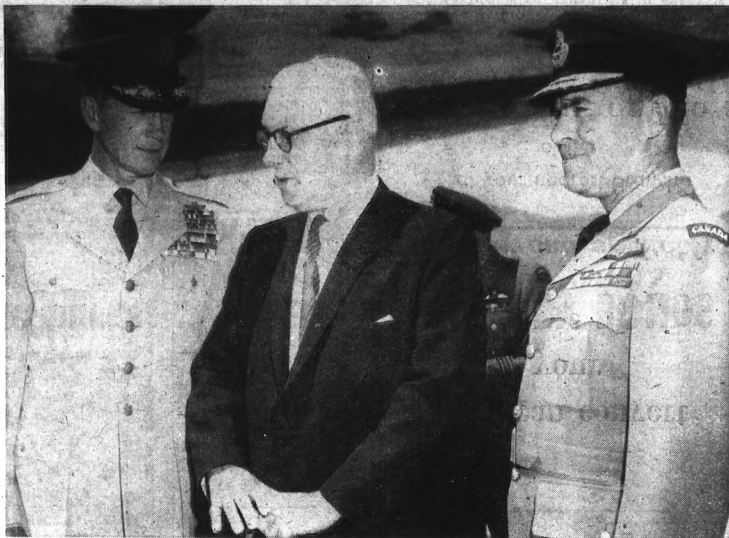

As researchers study the malady they have established a few facts. The paramount one is that it is a disease—and hence, society should not torture the helpless victim. It would seem that the alcoholic suffers some emotional deficiency, has never quite grown up to face reality. Thus the family that nags the alcoholic member is making a terrible mistake. Tears, tantrums, even prayers and pleadings, will not cure him. He needs someone to lean on, someone to help him. Hence the tremendous importance of Alcoholics Anonymous and their work. The members of AA—all reformed alcoholics—are as brave and self-sacrificing as we will ever know. Fortunately AA is represented in almost every community.

Finally, throwing an alcoholic into jail is no answer. Most governments are recognizing that now, as a century ago they became humane enough to realize that the mentally ill deserved treatment, not public abuse. More rehabilitation centres are being built, and that is a good thing. Unfortunately, to get to one, the alcoholic usually has to pass through a jail. A policeman should not be expected to differentiate between a drunken nuisance and an alcoholic, but every jail should.—The Herald, Herbert, Sask.

Not an unusual experience

An obviously frightened gentleman with an aching tooth went to see his dentist. In order to calm the man the dentist offered him a drink of whisky. The patient tossed it down and had another.

"Now," said the dentist, "go your courage back."
"Yeah," muttered the patient, "and I'd like to see any so and so touch my teeth!"

AT NORAD HEADQUARTERS: Mr. George R. Pearkes, centre Canadian Minister of National Defence, is shown with General Earle E. Partridge, left and RCAF Air Marshal Col. Roy Slemmon upon his arrival at Colorado Springs, Colo. The minister was the Colorado city to visit in the headquarters of the North American Air Defence

Command there. General Partridge is the Commander-in-Chief of the joint U.S.-Canadian air defence organization. Marshal Slemmon is the Deputy Commander. Mr. Pearkes, in the United States at the invitation of U.S. Secretary of Defence, Neil H. McElroy, spent a day conferring with NORAD officials before returning to Ottawa.

Brochure for parents

Red Cross provides swim teaching data

A booklet on swimming instruction prepared by the Red Cross claims "You can't think of better sport to save your life." The brochure, distributed by the American Red Cross, is available at the Regina Red Cross Headquarters for the sum of 25c.

It is called "Teaching Johnny to Swim" and is described as "a manual for parents." The idea of the booklet is for adults, particularly parents, to instruct youngsters so that they will be able to enjoy the water and, more important, take care of themselves and others in emergencies.

The brochure is liberally sprinkled with sketches to aid swimming instruction. "The steps range from the basic beginning," says the introduction, "in which a child is introduced to water for the first time, to the point at which he can perform the skills and tests listed for completion of the . . . beginner course."

Rewarding task The booklet says that "Before you start to teach Johnny, or Susie to swim, you must be convinced that you can do it—and then you can! To say it is easy is not exactly true. It could be one of the most challenging experiences you have ever had, but one of the most enjoyable and rewarding."

The Red Cross says that, in addition to the actual job of teaching the youngster to swim, there is the additional job of building in the child "positive attitudes toward being safe." You will have to make Johnny aware of the cause of accidents around water and the way by which these accidents can be prevented.

The booklet is subdivided into sections such as getting Johnny ready; practice at home; first time in the water; learning to breathe; prone float; prone glide; back float; back glide; prone kick glide; and other techniques of maneuvering in the water.

Finally, the brochure contains instruction on what to do in an emergency; techniques of artificial respiration; sketches on proper and improper handling of a boat; and what you can do to help a person in trouble, even if you cannot swim.

3. Johnny practices the "side" or prone glide. In waist-deep water he leans forward with arms extended and hands together until his shoulders are below the surface. Taking a breath, he places his head in the water and pushes forward.

4. Lie face down on a bench, legs straight but not stiff, move them up and down in a slow, even motion. When he (and Jimmy) can do this, have them get in waist-deep water, and with one boy towing the other by the hands, have them practice this kick. After practice, they should try this "steamboat" kick.

5. Now for the arm stroke. Have Johnny keep his arms under water and reach forward, first with one arm, and then the other, as if he were crawling. As the right arm goes forward, the left hand should come back and touch the lower part of the chest. Combine the arm and leg movements and keep face in the water at this time.

ANGLER'S DREAM—A recent fishing expedition resulted in a prize catch by local angler Frank "Pat" Derksen, shown here with the 14 lb. 40 inch "Jack" which he landed. Pat was one of a group of three who were fishing near the northwesterly tip of Lake Waskesiu (four miles past the Narrows) when the "big one" went for his lure. The other two with him in the boat were Ed. Peters and Frank Lefeman. The resulting fillets and those from a few smaller ones caught during the day were more than enough to feed 15 hungry people, including children, that night. What kind of bait was he using? An oval shaped red and white spoon—and he caught the fish while trolling!—Sask. Valley News, Rosthern, Sask.

Propane gas to be stored in caverns

Construction is planned to start shortly on three underground caverns in the Devonian salt beds near Melville for the storage of propane and butane products of the Steelman Gas Limited's casing-head gas processing plant at Steelman.

Test core drilling in the area has been completed by Dome Petroleum Ltd. and the findings have resulted in the final decision to proceed immediately with the project.

Propane and butane will be two by-products of the Steelman gas processing plant. They will be shipped in liquid form in tank cars from Steelman and will be fed into the underground caverns to be stored until required by markets.

The storage caverns will be in the rock salt formations on the northern edge of the Williston basin.

When the stored propane and butane are required, a saturated salt solution will be forced down into the caverns to repulse them.

Construction of the storage caverns is expected to be completed around the end of September.

There is a good market for propane gas in Saskatchewan but the butane market is small at the present time.—The Mercury, Estevan, Sask.

GOOD RESULTS

During the last six years, continued efforts to improve Canadian National Railways freight train performance have resulted in greater loads per train, longer and faster trains and thus better train performance.

NEW VAN REGULATIONS GIVE MORE PROTECTION

Alberta school children boarding and leaving school vans have been afforded a greater measure of protection from passing traffic as a result of new regulations calling for flashing red signal lights at the front and rear of all school vans. On two lane highways, motorists approaching a stopped van from either direction must come to a complete stop and may not proceed until the school bus resumes motion; the driver indicates by a signal that he may pass; or the flashing signals stop.

New regulations stipulate that all school vans other than a passenger car type used as a school bus shall be equipped with two alternately flashing red warning signal lamps on the front and rear of the vehicle. The lamps will be controlled by two switches — an automatic door-operated switch, and a spring-return manual switch. In addition, a manually operated switch is required to disconnect the entire system in the event the vehicle should be used for purposes other than transporting children.

Alberta school vans are painted a characteristic chrome yellow color and must bear the signs "School Bus" both front and rear. A "Stop on Signal" sign must also be painted on the rear of the bus.

The regulations are effective July 1.

On a four-lane or divided highway only motorists approaching the school van from the rear will be required to stop.

ANTONIO STRADIVARI

Authorities have estimated that the famous 18th century Italian violin maker Antonio Stradivari, who used the Latin form Stradivarius as his signature, made more than 1,100 instruments, including not only violins but violas, cellos and other stringed instruments. Only about 600 are known to exist today, but some of them may have been started by him and finished after his death.

Life Membership awards presented to SWNA members

Four veteran Saskatchewan weekly newspapermen were singled out for high honors at the 42nd annual convention of the Saskatchewan Weekly Newspaper Association held Friday and Saturday in the Beasborough hotel, Saskatoon.

Andrew King of Estevan, John Scott of Whitecourt, Jim Greenblatt of Swift Current and Ed. G. Quick of Weyburn were made honorary life members of SWNA, the organization they have all served faithfully for many years.

The awards are made only on retirement from active membership and in recognition of many years of service. Each of the newspapermen honored have at one time served as president of the association.

Mr. King, long-time publisher of the Estevan Mercury who retired when the paper was sold early this year, was presented with his life membership by John Vopni, secretary-manager of SWNA. Mr. Vopni spoke of the pleasant associations he has had with Mr. King over the years as fellow newspaperman and as members of the SWNA. Mr. King was president of the group in 1931-32.

Mr. Scott was made by Cliff Ashfield, editor of the Grenfell Sun. Mr. Ashfield said that Mr. Scott, who retired in 1955, had been in the newspaper business since 1892 and had published the Whitecourt Herald continuously for 55 years. President of SWNA in 1923-24, Mr. Scott was a member of it a parent body, the old Western Canada Press Association.

Jim Greenblatt, editor of the Swift Current Sun until he retired in 1957 to become public relations director for the southwestern section, Saskatchewan Federated Co-ops, was presented with his award by Irwin McIntosh, editor of the North Battleford News-Optimist.

Mr. McIntosh said Mr. Greenblatt had always been his ideal as a weekly newspaper editor. He said he was a man who loved his community and that through his "writing glass" thousands of people read his stories of Swift Current and its people. As editor of the Sun, Mr. Greenblatt had written the column, "Through the Looking Glass". He was president of SWNA in 1938-39.

In presenting the award to Mr. Quick, Bert McEay, editor of the Mooseomin World-Spectator, paid tribute to the man who retired in July after publishing the Weyburn Review for 22 years. He had been in the printing and publishing business for more than 50 years and was SWNA president in 1946-47.

Mr. Vopni said that the awards marked an important milestone in the history of the newspaper group.

The presentation of newspaper competition awards saw a first in that from Liverpool, N.S., brought "correspondent of the year" award. Winner was Mrs. Ron Grisdale of Plunkett, correspondent for the Viscount Sun and runner-up was Mrs. M. E. Webb of Speers, correspondent for the North Battleford News-Optimist.

In presenting the award to Mrs. Grisdale, vice-president Walter Migowsky of Maple Creek paid tribute to all weekly newspaper correspondents. Without them, he said, the papers couldn't be published.

Pro judges a winner for this new award, each member newspaper was asked to submit the name of one of his correspondents and the winner was picked from samples of their work.

newspaper with circulation 1,501 to 2,500.

The Yorkton Enterprise took the Printed Word trophy for the best all-round newspaper in its class, circulation over 2,500; the Touchwood Times won the Grain and Milling trophy for the best all-round newspaper with circulation of 700 and under; the Grenfell Sun won the Grain and Milling trophy for the best newspaper in the 701 to 1,500 circulation class.

Placing second and third in the editorial competition were the North Battleford News-Optimist and the Melville Advance. The News-Optimist also placed second as the best newspaper in its class and the Swift Current Sun was third.

The Carrot River Observer, the Shaunavon Standard and the Watrous Mail each stood second in its own class as best newspapers while the Anenod News Magnet, the Wilkie Press and the Biggar Independent each placed third.

The awards were made at various banquets when the 182 delegates and guests entertained by the Saskatchewan government department of travel and information; Imperial Oil and the Canadian Co-operatives Ltd. and the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

Guest speakers at the functions were travel and information minister Russ Brown who appealed to the weekly newspaper industry to help make the tourist industry a major one in Saskatchewan; and H. L. Fowler, secretary of Federated Co-ops. He said weekly newspapers and co-operatives have much in common—they are both community builders.

At an afternoon business session, delegates passed a motion that the board of directors go ahead with the preparation of a data manual listing the weekly newspapers in the province, the districts they serve and other information directed at selling advertising and creating more interest among advertisers in Saskatchewan's weeklies.

Addressing the session were John Miles, assistant advertising manager at the Regina Leader-Post and Ken Cooper of the Co-operating Advertisers, Saskatoon.

President Irwin McIntosh at the opening sessions reported that business was good for Saskatchewan's weekly newspapers in 1957, despite stiff competition.

He said Saskatchewan weekly newspapers were "second to none in Canada in appearance, content, style and modern publishing ideas," and he reported that this province has more weeklies per capita than any other in Canada.

Delegates adopted the report of John Vopni, secretary-manager. Cecil Day, president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association from Liverpool, N.S., brought greetings from that body.

Bill Teifer, Toronto, manager director of CWNPA, urged Saskatchewan delegates to attend the national convention in Toronto, September 4 to 6.

New scopes installed by Dr. Sam Wynn of Yorkton, are Ken Miller of the Semans Gazette, president; Irwin Macintosh, past president; Walter Migowsky, Maple Creek News, vice-president; John Vopni, secretary-manager; Cliff Ashfield, Grenfell Sun; Jim Adair, Estonia Enterprise, and Dave Belbeck, Swift Current Sun, directors.

On Saturday morning delegates toured the University of Saskatchewan and the new Saskatchewan Power Corporation generating plant as guests of SPC.

THE WAY OF SALVATION

SMELLY STATED
You will gain much more from this article if you read the entire tenth chapter of Paul's Epistle to the Romans. We must focus our attention on verses 9 and 10. "If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." Here the way of salvation is simply and clearly stated.

Why is believing in the resurrection? Because if you believe that, you will believe the rest of the record concerning Him. It is the climax: "If Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins." 1 Corinthians 15:17.

Believing with the heart is no mere formal assent but the embracing with the whole spirit nature the truth as it is in Jesus, and hence embracing Jesus Himself. Of course the acknowledging and abandoning of sin is involved but it is the putting of one's whole trust in Jesus Christ that brings salvation.

Confessing the Lord Jesus is more than reciting a "formula" done by words; it is also done by deeds. Deeds often have the greater impact. If others had not confessed Him we would never have heard. We must confess Him that still others may hear. It is the natural thing to do. "Whoever believeth on Him shall not be ashamed." Romans 10:11. We share the spirit of Peter and John who exclaimed, "We cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard." Acts 4:20.

Have you believed on Jesus Christ and confessed Him as Lord? Then you have been saved. Continue in so doing and you shall be saved eternally. We conclude with another promise from this great chapter: "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

NO PATIENT UPSURGE IN HOSPITAL PLAN

First 10 days of operation of the universal hospital scheme in Manitoba saw no appreciable rise in the number of patients in hospitals, provincial health authorities reported.

Dr. Morley Elliott, deputy health minister, said it could have been made on a number of hospitals, particularly in Greater Winnipeg, and that the increase in the number of patients admitted was slight.

Gordon L. Pickering, commissioner of hospitalization, reported that the number of duplications "Elimination of these duplications will be made within three months," the commissioner added.

In addition, new registrations covering approximately 2,500 people have been received since the beginning of July.

A YEAR AT UNIVERSITY

(Calgary Alberta)

What does it cost to send a boy or girl to university? The University of Saskatchewan, which has just raised its fees about 12 per cent on account of increased operating costs, has done some calculating. Presumably the figures would be just about the same in Alberta.

Total costs, it is figured, range from about $900 for a student in the first year of arts and science, to about $1,375 for the last years of medicine. The average would probably be around a thousand dollars.

That brings up the matter of where the money comes from. Some young people can't afford an outlay like that.

A system of scholarships "to ensure that no deserving student in Alberta will through lack of money be deprived of an opportunity to obtain a university education" is included in the Alberta government's new five-year plan. The details are not worked out yet. But a "deserving student" is anyone who is intelligent enough and works hard enough to get into university and stay in. A system of scholarships limited to the best students is not good enough.

We still think that all that's needed is a loan fund, with every student who qualifies for admission being eligible for a loan.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Writing in the August 2nd issue of Maclean's Magazine, Bruce Hutchison points to the fact that a profound organic and revolutionary change has occurred in our society's attitude toward Government and itself. He argues that the average Canadian is working about a third of his time for the state, and will work in this collective fashion more yet under our present plans, or pay the gigantic costs we are now assuming by the easier, invisible accounting system known as inflation. The changed attitude of society imposes a great many unpleasant sanctions.

"When business, for example," says Mr. Hutchison, "expects the state to underpin the economy and arrange a climate of prosperity, then business must expect and certainly cannot avoid more and more interference by the state in its formerly private affairs. When labor unions become powerful enough to twist the economy and damage the nation at large, they need not be surprised if the state increasingly interferes in their business. When farmers demand state subsidies for their crops they will find the state eventually regulating the size of those crops, as has happened in the United States. When the ordinary man expects the state to guarantee him a job he will find his freedom of choice and movement impaired, his life increasingly regulated, taxed and controlled."

Exchange Victory Bonds Now

Local residents who have not yet exchanged their Victory Bonds for one of the new Canada Conversion Loan issues are being urged to do so at once since there are now only twelve business days left until September 1958, when the conversion operation closes.

Many local people and businesses have already completed their conversions and added to the huge total for the whole Dominion. With returns now coming in increasing volume from the smaller centres like this, the total now converted is more than twice the amount of the largest Victory Loan campaign during the war. A week ago, the figure had passed the four billion dollar mark.

The end of the holiday season is expected to see a rush of conversions by private individuals as they return from vacations and visit their banks or investment dealers. September 3rd has already been named Conversion Day in some communities with banks and other financial institutions making special preparations to handle large numbers of conversions that day.

Strangely, many Canadians had completely forgotten that they owned Victory Bonds and are now richer than they thought they were. Bonds have turned up in the strangest places, in biscuit boxes, old strong boxes, bureau and desk drawers and country attics. These forgotten bonds have coupons attached so that their owners have not only been able to exchange them for new bonds at a higher interest rate but have also collected back interest and their cash adjustments.

Firemen's Training School

The Malden Volunteer Fire Brigade, after it had made arrangements for a new fire fighting engine, decided to hold a Firemen's Training School, and applied to the Fire Commissioner's Office to have one held here.

In due course, the Fire Commissioner informed the local brigade that such a school would be held in Malden on August 13 and 14.

The members of the local brigade are making all necessary arrangements for this school, and an invitation is extended to all fire brigades of the surrounding towns to attend. Rural and Town councillors, as well as anyone interested are welcome to attend.

This fire fighting course under the supervision of Chief Instructor M. D. (Doug) Gathercole, is primarily for Volunteer Fire Department members who have never attended a fire school or have not attended a school for a two-year period. The course consists of approximately 10 hours of instruction by lectures, films and practical care and use of first aid equipment, ventilation, smoke masks, tools and equipment.

Time will be spent with the fire apparatus and will include practical work on pumping water, hose laying, fire pumps and hydraulics, ladders and rescue and will be followed by a fire demonstration extinguishing oil pit and structural fires.

The first course for Volunteer Fire Fighters was conducted in August, 1947. Since that date, hundreds of Fire Fighters in Saskatchewan have availed themselves of this opportunity to increase their knowledge of modern fire fighting techniques. It is felt that as a result of this increased efficiency of the Volunteer Fire Fighters, that the Saskatchewan fire losses have been reduced substantially.—The Mirror, Malden, Sask.

RETIRED

Gordon Taylor, Minister of Highways, announced with regret, that Mr. J. Homer Johnston, Chief Maintenance Engineer for the Province of Saskatchewan, retired at the end of July.

"Mr. Johnston's place will be most difficult to fill," stated the Minister. "He has been an excellent back-ground of training in Civil Engineering and land surveying together with his keen understanding of the problems of the province. Place Mr. Johnston in a category where it will be most difficult to find a replacement. He has made a wonderful contribution to Alberta and to Canada."

Rural, urban centres co-operate for fly control

There are no flies on the people in the village of Fife Lake or on farms in the districts of Fife Lake, Rockingham and Coronach. Spraying farm yards and trees costs 25c per gallon; warbles 15c per head; lice 15c per head, and disinfecting premises 25c or more per gallon depending on the type of job. The cost of fly control for an entire farmstead is approximately $50.00 for one treatment. "Costs will go down," states Lorne Kimball, "as more people make use of this service."

The Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture has assisted municipalities and organized groups of farmers to buy high pressure sprayers. The Department will pay one-half the cost of sprayers to a maximum of $400 per machine. Districts which have used this policy and have purchased high pressure sprayers include Lake Alma, Minton, Coronach, Rockingham, Ceylon, Willow Bunch, Pangman and Victory.

Files are a threat to human health. Many people will not tolerate the presence of a fly once they know how a fly's digestive system works. Flies do spread diseases of many kinds.

The unsavory predator may have his income from livestock reduced by flies and other insects which pester stock in many ways. Flies also annoy poultry.

The provincial departments of agriculture and public health fully approve of community insect-control programs. Fly control can reduce the threat to human health and up the income from livestock.

The Council of the R. M. of Poplar Valley hired Ervins Gellner, Coronach, to operate the outfit. He promptly loaded the equipment on his half-ton truck and was ready for business.

Since Ervins Gellner started operating the spraying machine he has sprayed over 400 groves of trees for aphid and cankerworm control, large numbers of livestock for warble and lice control, persistent perennial weeds, livestock buildings, garbage cans, and yards.

Charlie Gellner, Coronach, is one of several farmers who sprayed livestock buildings, farm yards, and the outside walls of his home. "Effects of the spray last for weeks and it appears to gain renewed strength after every rain," states Mrs. Charlie Gellner. "It's wonderful. It has really taken care of the flies here, even the dog's milk dish on the outside step is free of flies. I can even leave the screen door open," she added with an approving smile.

The chemical mixture of house and barn flies consisted of five gallons of DDT; 1½ quarts of malathion and one quart of creolin. This was added to 200 gallons of water and mixed in a high pressure sprayer. "We've had good results for four weeks or more after spraying barns with this mixture," states Ervins Gellner. "Two sprayings per year during the fly season is very effective. For most effective control of flies, a complete clean up program should first be done on a community basis. That destroys their breeding places. Then get the remaining flies with your chemical sprays."

Cost per gallon of chemical spray varies with the contents of the mixture and the time required to apply it.

High pressure sprayers of the piston type are recommended for applying spray chemicals. Machines which produce 100 pounds air pressure in tanks provide the most effective use of spray chemicals for all jobs. Boomless farm sprayers of which there are several dozen in the area will provide 120 pounds pressure. These machines can be used successfully for all insect control work with the exception of warble control which requires spray pressures of 400 pounds.

Protein feeds keep milk flow up in fall

Feeding grain and protein supplement, milking regularly and culling poor producers will help prevent falling milk production in late fall and winter, according to Erle Roger, livestock specialist with the Saskatchewan Department of Agriculture.

Tame pasture and hay, Mr. Roger says, usually decline rapidly in growth and feed value during mid to late summer. As a result, heavily-producing cows will go down in milk production.

An extremely poor pasture calls for one pound supplement with each four pounds grain. The ratio of grain can be increased according to the quality of the pasture. This extra feed will help keep milk production up in late summer and early fall.

Irregular milking hours, common during harvest, lowers milk production and may cause expensive damage due to mastitis. Regular milking hours and proper procedures will prevent this.

Mr. Roger adds that culling poor producers and replacing these with good young cows expected to calve in September and October will help keep milk production high. Keeping cows milking heavily in fall and early winter is profitable since fluid milk prices are highest then.

Electronic brain knows the answer

Developments in the field of the electronic brain continue to astound. Now the U.S. Navy says it has one that can teach itself, as well as learn when taught.

This, obviously, would bring it close to the human brain than any device yet conceived. It can make mistakes. In fact it is never 100 percent accurate. But it can learn from its errors and thus improve.

There is the prospect that it can respond to voice commands, translate from one language to another, distinguish right from left.

If they're really serious on this last point, we proud defenders of the human brain may have had it. For these days a good many of us not only can't tell one car from another, but can't tell back from front.—Bruce Blossat.

PROMPT PAYMENT—The reputation built up by the Saskatchewan Government Insurance Office for prompt payment of claims is graphically portrayed in this picture. Farm Water and Sewage Systems

Every year more farms are getting water and sewage systems installed. This is one of the greatest conveniences on the farm. One of the main things about the sewage systems is the septic tank and systems chamber. Whether you use a field or a cesspool depends upon the soil type and the lay of the land. The field is the best system if it can be used in your situation. The two types of septic tanks available are the metal type and the concrete type. Of these the concrete are much more satisfactory. Figures obtained from the Alberta Department of Health regarding the types are:

Steel Type

Average life of tank: less than 18 years; Capacity (usual), 600 gallons; Cost (complete), $200.00; Sludge accumulation before cleaning, 200 gal.

Concrete Type

Average life of tank: more than 18 years; Capacity (usual), 600 gallons; Cost (complete), $170.00; Sludge accumulation before cleaning, 400 gal.

On the basis of these figures it can be seen that the concrete tank costs less initially, lasts twice as long and requires cleaning only half as often as the metal type.

Remember that either you or the plumber doing your work has to get a permit from the Department of Health to install a sewage system. There are two good bulletins available at my office which explain sewage systems. Drop in and get them.

Keep Cattle in Shape

Don't let your cattle lose flesh at this time of year. Poor pastures will not provide enough feed for a cow to feed a calf and stay in good shape so it may be necessary to give your cows a bit of grain if other pasture is not available. Two or three pounds of grain per animal per day should be adequate supplement.

Thistle Control

Those thistles growing on summerfallow can be nicely taken care of by spraying with about 32 ounces of 2,4-D per acre. This doesn't cost much and can be done in a very short time. Don't let thistles get ahead of you at this time of year.
